My name is Savannah Davis, I am 14 years old, and in the 7th grade. I entered the Springtown Beauty Pageant held at SHS auditorium on February 28, 2009. I won the People's Choice Award and also won the Junior Miss Springtown Pageant.

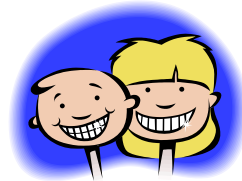

I enjoyed every bit of this pageant. It built up my courage and self-confidence. I also made the 2008 Cheerleading team for the Springtown Middle School. Go Po Jo.

Important Announcements about House Calls

#1: Do not return calls to the caller ID number that appears when your House Calls appointment reminder message is left on your phone. Call the main office number at 817.282.0200.

#2: Please do not exclusively depend upon House Calls messages left on your phone to remind you of your More-Smiles orthodontic appointment. During times of power surges, brown-outs, and complete power outages, the phone system may shut down and not allow these calls to occur. The system will not reset itself which may result in a missed reminder call. Depend upon your personal calendar for scheduling your orthodontic appointments. House Calls will serve as a backup reminder.

"Oral Piercings present potential risks."

If you are considering an oral piercing, consult a dentist to discuss the possible side effects. If you have an oral piercing, schedule routine dental visits so the dentist can check for problems.

Potential risks include:

Prolonged bleeding, swelling, damage to the sublingual salivary glands, aspiration (choking), plaque build-up, nerve damage, damage to teeth and gums, and infection.

If complications arise, schedule an appointment as soon as possible with your dentist; they are trained to monitor and treat oral health problems. If needed, they will work with a physician to manage serious conditions.

Follow all oral cleaning instructions provided by your dentist. Whether a piercing is through the cheek, lip or tongue, proper oral hygiene measures are critical and may help reduce the risks of some damaging side effects of oral piercing.

Esthetic Alternatives

One of the most sought after treatment options in orthodontics today is a more esthetic alternative to traditional braces. With the increasing popularity of clear aligner systems (i.e., Invisalign®) and ceramic brackets, patients have an increasing number of options for a more esthetic alternative. Among those systems is the In-Ovation L system by GAC. It is comprised of partial, self ligating brackets that are placed on the lingual surface of the anterior teeth. Contrary to previous lingual systems which were bulky and had repeated bond failures, these new brackets are much smaller, providing less interference with the opposing dentition along with less speech impediment. The self ligating clip on the brackets also minimizes the time patients spend in the chair and maximizes the time between appointments. These brackets are ideal for treating minor rotations or space in the anterior region. Since they are only placed on the anterior dentition this system is not indicated for cases with more complicated occlusal correction or moderate to severe crowding. However, for patients seeking minor correction limited to the front teeth and are looking for the most esthetic alternative, this system may be an ideal match.

If you have any questions regarding esthetic alternatives to traditional braces, feel free to give us a call or schedule a free consultation.
